THE VICTORIA PULPIT.

Fire and Flood—Seasonable Sermons—The Weekly Report.

PANDORA STREET METHODIST.

The pulpit of this church was occupied in the evening by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Starr, who preached an eloquent sermon from the text "The floods have lifted up their voices." The discourse was prefaced by an exceedingly vivid description of the recent disasters at Johnstown and its neighboring boroughs. In a few minutes the congregation had placed before them a picture of the calamities that befell those cities. Basing his remarks on the text quoted above, and suggested by the events with which our readers are now more or less familiar, the reverend gentleman said that these floods have a voice for each of us, and we should ascertain what it is. Many say that the religion of nature is quite sufficient for them. From nature, they say, they can learn of nature's God. They prefer in fact to worship nature instead of God, and have a religion of hopelessness. Nature is pitiless. Those floods have voices, but no tears. After devastating all that was in their way, they rolled on as merrily as if they had left no destruction and death behind them. Many no doubt cried, "O waves, have pity!" but the only answer came in the form of a continued flood of rain and rushing torrents. The fact of the matter is, nature is a contradictory witness, at one time saying God is good, at another time God is not good. Thanks be unto God there is one place where Salvation is sure, and that is "The Rock of Ages." Calamities are not a mark of Divine displeasure. There are people uncharitable enough to say, when a pleasure boat is capsized on Sunday, or a train wrecked on Sunday, "That is judgment upon Sunday travel." Seattle is burnt, and these uncharitable people are ready to exclaim "Judgment upon the wicked people." No! No! said the preacher. The people of Seattle and of Johnstown are just as good as any others. In the flood churches were overturned as well as dens of vice, the home of the Christian with that of the ungodly. Were there judgments, then I say there would be no end of Judgment Day. Christ denied the truth of such contentions. God sometimes punishes individuals, communities, or even nations, not from wrath, but for reproof. Good will be the outcome of it all. The floods have carried away the wheat and corn, but who knows but abundant harvests will in future compensate for this a thousand fold? Revivals will come, and the valley will become a place of soul saving. Then, again, just as soon as the telegraph has verified the report of the disaster at Johnstown, subscriptions were started throughout the length and breadth of the land. St. Paul subscribed $5000 in five minutes, and so with others. Telegrams from all parts of the Union came in saying, "Cheer up, help is coming." The United States may not be dignified in their dealings with Canada, as instanced by the Fisheries Question, but all uncharitable feelings were obliterated with regard to Johnstown. A thrill went through this country, as well as through the Union. We are one family. Our hearts are thrilled with the impulse of one common brotherhood. Some don't like this idea. That their brother is John Chinaman is distasteful. But Paul's assertion is still true, "God hath made of one blood all the nations of men." When the Yellow River in China was flooded, the sum raised in London was a thousand pounds sterling. So other instances might be cited. So with Johnstown. It will bind them all together, and bind them to God. All jealousies will be wiped away; Christ's treaty of peace will be signed, and then many voices joining in the great triumphal song will surround the throne of God. The impressive discourse was closed with an earnest appeal, supported by logical arguments and facts, to all to be ever ready, and not reject Heaven's call.

PROPHECY AND ITS FULFILLMENT.

The following is a synopsis of the discourse given in the tent last night: The Bible is its own interpreter, and, therefore, does not need man's interpretation in order to be understood. True, we need to search and compare Scripture with Scripture, because each of the Bible writers has written upon the subjects treated by them from different standpoints, thus bringing out various phases of the same topic. A thorough understanding of any one of these requires, therefore, a study of what each has said concerning it. To show the simplicity of the prophetic portion of the Bible I will call attention briefly to the second chapter of Daniel. This prophecy opens at the time Daniel with many other Hebrews was in captivity, having been taken to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, the ruler of that empire. It seems that the king having had a dream that impressed his mind, yet being unable to recall it, demanded that his magicians should reproduce the dream and then give its meaning. Of course they were unable to do this, and the king therefore decreed that they must die, having deceived him with reference to their abilities. That night God revealed the thing to Daniel in vision. The next day he came before the king and related the dream, which was a metallic image. Doubtless, at the beginning of this recital, the king was struck with a thrill of admiration for the young Hebrew, which, as he proceeded, must have given way to a feeling of awe, at the accuracy with which he delineated the dream. And when the prophet said confidently, yet quietly, "This is the dream, and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king," without doubt the king was prepared to receive the interpretation that was to follow. Daniel said: "Thou art this head of gold." This then explains the head of gold. The Kingdom of Babylon was the head of the universal empires the world was destined to behold. But the Prophet spoke further: "And after thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth. And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron; forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things; and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise." In the fifth chapter of Daniel, we learn that the grandson of Nebuchadnezzar, Belshazzar, who afterward ruled in the empire, was slain, B. C. 538, and his throne was filled by Darius, a Mede. The eighth chapter of Daniel introduces, among other symbols, a ram and a goat. In explaining these symbols, verses 20, 21 state: "The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Media and Persia. And the rough goat is the king of Grecia; and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king." The Medo-Persian Empire was succeeded by Grecia, B. C. 331. Then three of the four universal kingdoms have been found from an examination of the Scriptures. The fourth is shown by reading Luke II, 1. Rome became master of the nations B. C. 161.

The subject for Monday night is, the Fifth Kingdom.

Funeral.

The mortal remains of the late William Brix were interred on Sunday afternoon. The funeral took place from the residence Johnson street. A large number of friends were in attendance. Rev. Donald Fraser officiated at the residence and at Ross Bay cemetery.

MINE ACCIDENT.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 10.—A terrible accident occurred at the Gaylord mine, Plymouth, this morning. A number of miners were at work in a large breast when, without warning, the rocky roof fell in. Four men were instantly killed. Their names are Reese Lloyd, Pat Carley, Wm. Williams and Mathew Davis. Two Poles had their legs cut off and will probably die. The cause of the accident was insufficient propping of the mine.

JOHNSTOWN HORROR.

Johnstown, June 10.—Rain began falling at four o'clock this morning and now it is coming down in a pour. Laborers are working right along and will so continue. All of the laboring men who worked on the wreck will be paid off Wednesday and as many of them as desire will be given employment by the State. This morning a detail of the 14th regiment was sent to Cambria City to bring out 200 Italians and compel them to go to work. They have been drawing rations right along, but have refused to help out on the wrecks. They are now at work with a guard over them. At Cambria hospital there are a few female patients suffering from nervous prostration. Late yesterday the ruins of the Catholic church and three other large buildings near the Baltimore and Ohio passenger station were condemned and blown up by dynamite. The bodies recovered yesterday are all in such an advanced stage of decomposition that it was necessary to pour disinfectants on the clothes before workmen could handle them.

SANITARY CONDITION.

Johnstown, June 10—At the Presbyterian Church morgue this morning the first body brought in was that of a horribly mutilated man taken out of the ruins near the First National bank and not identified. Since six o'clock last night nine bodies have been taken to the morgue. At the Pennsylvania Railway depot the morgue has been abandoned and a new morgue located in the first ward school building near the stone bridge. The State Board of Health reports all morgues in a favorable sanitary condition.

AID FOR THE SUFFERERS.

New York, June 10.—Money continues coming into the mayor's office for the relief of the Conemaugh sufferers. In an hour this morning $239,620 was counted. Walter Stanton, chairman of the transportation committee, received the following dispatch from W. H. Thompson, treasurer of the relief committee of Johnstown: "Your telegram received offering to donate for help of Johnstown sufferers. Cots, comforters and bedding is badly needed. Ship to Johnstown, mark 'James B.' The Chemical Company sent one thousand one grain quinine pills to-day."

CLEVER TRICK.

Chico, Cal., June 10—An attempt was made at 1:15 this morning to rob Hubbell & Booth's hardware store. The robber had obtained some booty and was leaving the store when he was halted by an officer with a cane which was levelled at him as if it were a rifle. The thief was arrested.

LIBERAL 'FRISCO.

San Francisco, June 10—It is proposed to divide $14,000, the surplus funds of the National Convention between Johnstown and Seattle.

Subscriptions to the Johnstown fund amounted to $68,100 at noon.

AMBITIOUS PETERSON.

Boston, June 10.—Henry C. Peterson, of San Francisco, the well-known sculler, has sent from Salt Lake City a challenge to John McKay, of Halifax, N. S., to row him a single scull race, three miles with a turn, on some eastern lake, for $1000 a side, the race to occur four weeks after signing articles.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE TO BE PROSECUTED

London, June 9—The Public Prosecutor ordered another police summons to be issued against Viscount Manderville, the oldest son of the Duke of Manchester, whose bankruptcy was announced about three months ago. The Viscount is charged with obtaining money under false pretences.

GLADSTONE ON THE STUMP.

London, June 8—The Hon. W. E. Gladstone, has gone to Southampton where he will open a western stumping tour. Replying to an address presented to him, he said that the Liberals had good cause to congratulate themselves upon recent events; he declared that if the next general elections gave results proportionate to those given at the bye-elections the Home Rule party would gain a hundred seats.

SHIP OWNERS SURRENDER.

Seamen's Strike Extending in Liverpool—Settled Elsewhere.

Liverpool, June 9.—The difficulty of the shipmasters and ship owners in obtaining crews for vessels is fast increasing. Even novices whose services are being sought in the places of experienced seamen, stokers, etc, are demanding the ten shillings extra for which the old men stand out, notwithstanding the fact that their work is worth almost nothing. In face of this state of affairs and in view of other difficulties encountered, the ship owners of Glasgow, Londonderry and Aberdeen, have yielded to the demands.

The ship owners of Liverpool are considering a proposition to import several hundred Lascars from the East Indies to take the place of the striking sailors.

Mr. Broughton, late General Manager of the Great Western Railway, died at Eastwood early this morning:

[Deceased was one of the ablest railroad men on the continent. He came to Canada from England in 1874 to manage the Great Western and retained the position until the absorption of that road by the Grand Trunk. He was then appointed a member of the board of arbitration in the dispute about the Intercolonial, and subsequently occupied high positions on American railways.]

Mr. Frank Allington, who in company with two others left Kamloops some two months ago to develop his claim about 100 miles up the North Thompson, has returned. The shaft had been sunk about 27 feet when water interfered and operations had to be suspended until low water. Mr. Allington speaks hopefully of the prospects on his claim, and will push development vigorously. On the trip down the party had a narrow escape from drowning. A raft was improvised for the trip down the river, and on Tuesday they ran into some driftwood, the current carrying the raft under the drift and leaving the voyageurs in the water. They lost all their effects, but all managed to reach the bank in safety.

LIGHT WANTED.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—It seems a little singular that men who attempt to discuss public questions in the columns of the newspapers, do not make some attempt to inform themselves upon the subjects of which they treat.

"J. D. P.," who writes in the Colonist of yesterday, does not even know who are the parties to the proposed "land exchange."

It may be doubted, therefore, if he knows what it is proposed to exchange, or for what purpose.

This looks bad for an aspirant to legislative honors. RAILWAY.

St. Andrew's Church.

The service in this church in the morning was conducted by Mr. R. E. Knowles of Manitoba. Taking for his text the parable of the prodigal son, as recorded in the XV Chap. of St. Luke, the young preacher delivered a clear and logical discourse.

In beginning he pointed out the reasons why this parable has always been specially interesting, showing that it was largely on account of its reasoning influence on those whose past lives were dark and sinful. Also interesting because of the perfect representation of human life, as shown in the wanderings of the wayward boy, the yearning for him and the open armed welcome of the rejoicing father. This parable was spoken to illustrate our wanderings from a Heavenly Father. Noticing the application, we see that by his designation as the younger son is implied the folly characteristic of youth and characteristic of all who turn from God, or attempt without Him to secure happiness or success. And then, too, he demanded the property which he thought was his, and in riotous living he wasted it. Just as the work which that prodigal failed to do has never yet been done, so what we neglect to do can be done by no other worker, with means however gigantic. So we do take from God, our time, our talents, our gifts of speech and thought, and use them not for His glory, but for our own ends. The speaker now referred to the influence of evil company as here exemplified, showing the discrimination evident here as to our company. Thus the Son was wrong in mingling with evil company, but the father justified in the royal reception given to the son, polluted though he was. Finally, as the wanderings here set forth, illustrates sin, so is the welcome a gladsome type of the treatment at the hands of God of every returning prodigal.

Vancouver Coal Company.

The statutory meeting of the new Vancouver Coal Mining and Land Company, Limited, was held at 12, Old Jewry Chambers, London, E. C., on Tuesday 21st May. Mr. John Galsworthy, who presided, said that the new Company was incorporated on January 30th last, and on February 28th the reconstruction resolution was confirmed, and from that date all the property and profits of the old Company passed to the new Company. Up to the present time 181,470 shares in the new Company had been applied for and allotted, leaving very few outstanding. The effect of the reconstruction had been to give them larger powers, which was important in regard to the proposed sale of the property to Messrs. Rosenfelds' executors, because they were now in a position to dispose of the undertaking to them without any question rising as to their power. The directors had set aside an amount of profit which came from the old Company to pay 7½ per cent on June 24th, which was in addition to the dividend of 10s per share which was paid last December. Under the reconstruction scheme also the balance sheet would be in a much more healthy condition than it had been for many years past. He added that the output from the mines for this year was better than it had ever been.

DEFENCE OF ESQUIMALT.

Nothing Done but Talk—A Reply Awaited from our Government.

The telegraph acquainted us at the time with the purport of the question of Lord Sudeley and the reply of the Government in regard to what was being done about defending Esquimalt. The English mail received this morning brings the full text of both the inquiry and the answer which it elicited, as follows:

In the House of Lords on Thursday, Lord Sudeley asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether the Dominion Government had executed to the proposed arrangement for the defence of the harbor of Esquimalt in Vancouver's Island, which he stated last year had been sent out on the 12th of June, 1888; whether the contemplated works had been commenced, and the armament sent out; whether the Government would now state the date when the fortification of this important harbor (being the headquarters of our navy on the Pacific station) would be completed and the guns placed in position. The noble lord pointed out that although in his judgment the position of the naval headquarters at Esquimalt was peculiar and unsatisfactory, and should be transferred to Burrard Inlet, the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, yet the Government had finally decided that the naval headquarters were to remain at Esquimalt, and there could be no doubt that our only coaling station on the Pacific ought to be put in a position of being able to defend itself. Twelve months had passed since he last called attention to the subject, and yet, if he was rightly informed, nothing whatever had been done. The promises made had not been carried out; no guns had been sent and no definite arrangements had been completed. Who was actually to blame he could not tell. He had heard from many quarters that there had been a "Midshipman Easy" kind of triangular duel of correspondence going on. The Admiralty had written to the War Office, the War Office had written to the Admiralty, and both departments had written to the Colonial office. The Colonial Office had written to the Dominion of Canada, and they had all written again to each other, and the grand result had been absolutely nil.

Lord Elphinstone, in reply, pointed out that in the agreement with the Canadian Government it was stipulated that while the Imperial Government were prepared to find armament, ammunition and submarine stores, the Dominion Government, on their part, were to provide the permanent garrison, and training instructors capable of instructing the artillery and submarine miners, who would form part of the local force. On further consideration, it appeared that the Dominion Government would probably find very great difficulty, and certainly very great expense, were they to be called upon to provide the artillery men, submarine miners and officers capable of instructing the local force, and it had therefore been decided that a force of seventy-five Royal Marine Artillery were to be offered to the Dominion Government, including three officers. Fifty of these men would serve as artillerymen, and fifteen as submarine miners. The charge for maintaining that force—£7000 a year—would be borne by the Dominion Government. The whole force would be under the command of a field officer. The officers would be capable of training the men of the local force in artillery and submarine drill. A dispatch to that effect was sent out May 2nd last. The Admiralty had already selected the officers and men for that purpose, and they could, if required, be sent away at two or three days' notice with the exception of the submarine miners. The reason of that exception was that the military and naval submarine drill were different, and it was thought desirable to have the men trained in the military drill, as otherwise there would be two different systems and sets of stores in the Colony, which would be sure to lead to confusion. Application as to the training of those men had been made to the War Office. With regard to the second part of the question, which asked whether the works had been commenced, and when they would be completed, that was a question rather for the War Office than the Admiralty, but he apprehended that they were both very much in the same position, which was that neither could take any step forward until the Canadian Government had replied to the despatch of May 2. His noble friend, Lord Harris, who was unable to be present, had authorized him to say that part of the important armement that was to have gone to Esquimalt had been sent elsewhere. The quick-firing guns were in the manufacturer's hands, and the machine were being re-bored. There was no doubt that the armament would be ready as soon as the fortifications were fit to receive them. The Government did not feel justified in keeping guns in England awaiting the completion of fortifications which were only in contemplation, while there were other important fortifications and ships ready to receive guns.

Lord Sudeley said he would put the question again when sufficient time had elapsed to enable the Dominion Government to reply to the despatch of May 2d, and that at the same time he would inquire what progress had been made with the defences of King George's Sound and Thursday Island, which he understood were at present in a very backward state.

BLAINE WISHES PEACE.

Intentions with which the Uncrowned President is Credited.

Washington, June 9.—Secretary Blaine and the British Minister are seeing a great deal of each other these days, and it is the belief that attempts are already making to come to an understanding on the Canadian fisheries and Behring Sea question. It was positively asserted when Sir Julian Pauncefote came here he was under instructions to negotiate treaties, if possible, covering both these occasions. It is generally understood that Mr. Blaine is most anxious to signalize his administration of foreign affairs by treaties removing all causes of difference with Great Britain and he is said to be convinced even as Bayard was that it is impossible to get along under the fishery treaty of 1818 and to be committed in his own judgment, though not yet by public utterance, to the policy of negotiating a new treaty. He probably thinks he can be more fortunate than Mr. Bayard in making a treaty the Senate will confirm. Anyway he is credited with the intention to try it. He will endeavor to settle the Behring Sea dispute also, not in the same treaty with the fisheries, as the Dominion wishes, but in a separate instrument, which shall bear the nature of an international agreement for the preservation of the seal fisheries in the interest of the commerce of the world and the researches of science, to which every interested nation shall subscribe. Such an arrangement was prepared by Secretary Bayard. He got Russia, Japan, France and Germany to agree to it. The British Government was willing to do so, but held back because Canada wanted to use the Behring Sea dispute as a weight in settling the fisheries question, and it became apparent that the Senate would not ratify the Bayard-Chamberlain treaty. Blaine will endeavor to defend this plan, and expects to convince the British minister that the questions are essentially separate, and must be treated in independent negotiations.

GETS THERE AFTER A WHILE

In view of the impending land swap, and the arid wastes, and other features of sterility which this province is to accept in lieu of the fertile plains of Peace river, the Colonist has suddenly concluded that it would be a good idea for the Government to appoint a commission on "Irrigation and Arid lands in imitation of the United States." It is scarcely necessary for us to remark that this is a new departure of the Colonist's, and we experience some curiosity to learn how far-reaching it is, whether or no the Government itself is imbued with the idea. The artesian well business was never properly a Government enterprise. The Government threw it to the people as sop to Cerebus, appropriating inadequate funds and pushing the work languidly. The Government hoped that the enterprise would die of inanition, and all through the dreary months of last winter, when the House was in session, the Colonist never once vouchsafed to discuss irrigation, good, bad or indifferent. Not a word of aid and comfort did the Colonist offer the TIMES, the latter at the time advocating strenuously that the Government should appropriate liberally in the interest of experimental artesian well boring. Perhaps, now that the Colonist is advocating an irrigation commission we should interpret its silence of last winter as speaking consent to our views and attribute its new departure to the normal outcome of growing independence of its recent political affiliations. This, however, is rather too liberal an interpretation of the Colonist's recent utterances. We are not to suppose that the Colonist has taken this departure wholly on its own responsibility. It is easier to believe that the Government at last has awakened to the truth that irrigation is really important as a means of developing the latent resources of the province, and that the Colonist has been given its cue from the region of the Government House. However, we will let this feature pass. The Colonist has got there at last, and the fact of its being the organ of the Government our attention is directed more particularly to the smaller Government fry which have placed themselves on record as anti-water, and which must now retrograde on their previous policy. Last winter these sheets, influenced by the local political Baal, the Provincial Secretary, not only deprecated further appropriations in the interests of irrigation, but howled that THE TIMES was making more political capital out of the MCKAY fiasco than the occasion warranted. "Anything to get a lick at the government" was the cry against THE TIMES. It never seemed to occur to anybody that THE TIMES was disinterested. The government howlers, instigated by their own venal instincts, could not understand that THE TIMES was talking in behalf of the province and not in the interests of any particular political organization, and now, with the Colonist's new departure, and the Government's change of base, what are these narrow-chested, thin-voiced pipers on the Mainland going to do about it? Will they practically endorse THE TIMES, as the Colonist has done? We don't see how they can escape it. What a merry time these organs are having, dancing to Government music. Consider the News, for instance. Scarcely six moons have passed since it railed at THE TIMES as a crank on the irrigation question, and yet having once bowed the knee to the political Baal of this province, in opposition to irrigation, it must bow again so soon as the edict goes forth, which undoubtedly has reached Vancouver by this time in reversal of that doctrine. And how about the Columbian, by the placid Fraser, which has been tooting plaintively its tin whistle to Robsonian music? Verily, it will have to gird up its loins from out of a Westminster strawberry patch, and pipe artesian water in high C. Nor need we confine our remarks to the New Westminster Columbian. In our mind's eye, we are carried to Kamloops, and in obedience to the ROBSONIAN mandate, seconded by an approving nod from the vicinity of the Shuswap Mills, we see the Sentinel getting down off the fence with the alacrity of a person who was finding the position abrading to the cuticle. Then there will be literary travail in the editorial sanctum of the Sentinel. There will be evolved from the profound depths of the editorial comprehension an elaborate composition to the effect that the Sentinel had always been in touch with irrigation, but had refrained from dogmatizing on the matter out of deference to government susceptibilities. Of course not one of this delectable newspapers triumvirate will acknowledge that they are endorsing THE TIMES. A government organ is not required to be magnanimous, to give the devil his due. But whether our contemporaries endorse us or not is of little moment. Our satisfaction lies in fact that the public will have an opportunity to observe the three Mainland pup pets go back on their former doctrine and howl irrigation until they are hoarse. Some of them, no doubt, will expect to get on the commission, and thus earn a notoriety which their abilities would never have given them. Let us congratulate the Colonist on its first outspoken sentiments on the desirability of irrigation. We hope that it will keep the ball rolling, and if it does, and is sincere, it may flatter itself that in conjunction with the TIMES it is acting the part of a public benefactor.

THE MILLING PROBLEM.

The milling problem, if we may take the Toronto Mail for it, is presenting some very interesting propositions, and Mr. FOSTER, to whom has been confided the duty of reconciling the conflicting interests, has before him a task which, if he succeeds in performing to the satisfaction of every body concerned, will entitle him to a high rank among political economists. From Manitoba Mr. FOSTER' ears are greeted with the cry, "if you reduce the tariff on wheat you will ruin us," while on the east (Nova Scotia), the slogan is, "if you increase the tariff on bread-stuffs you must raise the duty on coal." A Halifax journal says that the duty on flour may be increased a dollar on the barrel, provided the duty on bituminous coal be raised from sixty cents to one dollar per ton. The third feature of the case is that under no circumstance, and upon no pretext, can an increased tax be levied on the industries of Ontario, which already are heavily enough burdened. The solution of this triangular problem calls clearly for the exercise of the faculties of a very level-headed man, and we suggest that those people who are concerning themselves over the Jesuits estates act, abandon it for the moment for a question which vitally effects the pockets of every Canadian.

THE ETHICS OF BRIBERY.

The Boston Herald propounds the question: Are business men justified in putting out money to defeat the advocates of a policy antagonistic to their pecuniary interests? The men interviewed generally replied in the affirmative—qualifying their assent only by the requirement that the money be used to defray the "legitimate expenses" of an election. To this view the New York World responds: "This is like trying to keep a wild animal confined after opening the door of its cage. 'Legitimate' expenses, as interpeted by the 'practical' politicians who handle the money, means anything necessary to win. For rich men to influence elections in this way is to connive at bribery. There can be no 'legitimate' use for campaign funds of $2,000,000 or more, such as were pitted against each other in the last election. And when a rich man uses his money to 'protect his interests' by carrying elections he not only helps to debauch the voters but he destroys the equality of citizens. The poor man can 'protect his interests' only with his vote. What equality is there between him and the man who can buy a hundred or a thousand votes? When money controls elections the essence of democracy is destroyed. And neither Pharisaism nor sophistry can make this anything else by Plutocracy—the rule of wealth."

The World seems to forget that while it is very wrong for rich men to subscribe money toward election expenses, it is also very wrong for the voter to accept it. If the majority of voters are venal, then Plutocracy will win; if the majority of voters are honest, Plutocracy cannot win. It is not, therefore, for the World to lecture the Plutocrats but to lecture the voters. These are the people which should be reformed. The World's argument is precisely the argument of the prohibitionists. The latter would correct the habits not the morals of the people, and insure sobriety by keeping temptation out of their way. The World would make voters honest by keeping temptation out of their way. The rule won't work. And if men will not be true to themselves, knowing that they are doing wrong at the same time, if they suffer from Plutocracy we can but say, it served them right.

WIGGINS AND METEMPSYCHOSIS.

There has always been good reason for suspecting that WIGGINS was a crank of the superlative degree, and now we have direct evidence of it in the announcement that he is passing through the religious phase of his existence. He has devoted a great deal of study to the future state. His orthodoxy promises to bring him into collision with several of the Christian sects. He says a good deal of astronomy is mixed up with our religion. He announces that he is a believer in the doctrine of PYTHAGORAS, called the doctrine of Metemsychosis or transmigration of souls. On the death of a human being, or in fact any animal, the soul is absorbed by its own species with a new body. Perhaps the spirit of Sandbelle will pass into the professor to the reporter. If this be true of WIGGINS, it is the logical sequence of a temperament erratic and volatile, and we shall next expect to hear of him in the fragrant category of the pair of faith healers, who after nearly twenty years of married life divorced themselves without the aid of the courts, the woman marrying another and handsomer man a few days later. These abnormalities are perhaps necessary to civilization, as a means of encouraging the study of psychological phenomena, but they are never the less indicative at the same time that a little learning is a dangerous thing, and that especially those who endeavour to fathom occult science are very apt to lose their mental and moral equilibrium. If Mr. WIGGINS should prove no more successful in his elucidation of the Pythagorian doctrine than he has been as a prognosticator of the weather, there is no danger of his school of philosophy receiving very general acceptance.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The great interest taken in Esquimalt by the Imperial authorities is due to the fear expressed by Lord Sudeley, lest Russia, a power that Great Britain might have trouble with in the future, should catch the British navy at a disadvantage in the Pacific. He took occasion to say also that fortifying Esquimalt had no connection with the possibility of a war with the United States, a contingency considered altogether improbable and beyond the range of practical politics.

The N. Y. World knows all about the origin of the rumor that British war ships were to be sent to Behring Sea, and in consequence the two countries would be plunged into war. Here is its version: "The war clouds which our friends in British Columbia have been trying to persuade us were looming over Behring Sea prove to have been invoked by the vaporings of a subordinate officer of the flagship of the Admiral in command of the British squadron in the Pacific. The alleged revelations of the warlike instructions given to Admiral Heneage by the British Admiralty were uttered by this officer in the course of a speech made by him at a dinner in Victoria, B. C. In explanation of his jingoistic bluster it is related that this indiscreet officer had partaken very freely of champagne. In order to give him an opportunity to recover from the effects of the wine and to moderate his desire for a fight with the Yankees his commanding officer promptly placed him under arrest. The outlook is peaceful."

CITY AND PROVINCE.

"The Madonna at the Tub," of whom Miss Phelps writes, was a genuine specimen of health and strength. She doubtless heeded the warnings of her predecessors, and understood and appreciated the matchless qualities of DR. PIERCE'S Favorite Prescription, which relieves and cures so many ailments peculiar to the sex. As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages, in particular. For overworked, "worn out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers and feeble women generally, "Favorite Prescription," is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

For Constipation, Sick or Bilious Headache, use Dr. Pierce's Pellets or Anti-bilious Granules. Purely vegetable. One a dose.

—What Toronto's well-known Good Samaritan says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint for over 20 years, and have tried many remedies, but never found an article that has done me as much good as Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure." CLARA E. FORTER.

—There is a wide difference between medicines which affect merely the symptoms of disease and those which affect its causes. The first are useful as palliatives, the second, if of genuine efficacy, produce a radical cure. To the latter class belongs Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. Thoroughness of operation is its special attribute in all cases of Billiousness, Costiveness, Indigestion, Kidney Complaints and Female Weakness.

AYER'S PILLS.

Sugar-Coated Cathartic

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dowagiac, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Ewing, Richmond, Va.

RUINOUS COMPANIONS.

"CONSORT WITH BURGLARS AND YOU WILL BE A BURGLAR."

Dr. Talmage Makes Some New Remarks on an Old Subject—How Speedthrifts and Debauchees Are Made—Evil Wrought by the Skeptic.

BROOKLYN, June 2.—The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached at the Tabernacle today. After expounding the Scriptures he gave out that popular hymn by A. M. Toplady, beginning:

Your harps, ye trembling saints,
Down from the willows take.

He took for his text Proverbs xiii, 20: "A companion of fools shall be destroyed." Following is a verbatim report of the sermon:

"May it please the court," said a convicted criminal, when asked if he had anything to say before sentence of death was passed upon him, "may it please the court, bad company has been my ruin. I received the blessings of good parents, and, in return, promised to avoid all evil associations. Had I kept my promise I should have been saved this shame, and been free from the load of guilt that hangs round me like a vulture, threatening to drag me to justice for crimes yet unrevealed. I, who once moved in the first circles of society, and have been the guest of distinguished public men, am lost, and all through bad company."

This is but one of the thousand proofs that the companion of fools shall be destroyed. It is the invariable rule. There is a well man in the wards of a hospital, where there are a hundred people sick with ship fever, and he will not be so apt to take the disease as a good man would be apt to be smitten with moral distemper if shut up with iniquitous companions.

In olden times prisoners were herded together in the same cell, but each one learned the vices of all the culprits, so that, instead of being reformed by incarceration, the day of liberation turned them out upon society beasts, not men.

DO NOT SEEK BAD COMPANIONS.

We may, in our places of business, be compelled to talk to and mingle with bad men; but he who deliberately chooses to associate himself with vicious people is engaged in carrying on a courtship with a Delilah, whose shears will clip off all the locks of his strength, and he will be tripped into perdition. Sin is catching, is infectious, is epidemic. I will let you look over the millions of people now inhabiting the earth, and I challenge you to show me a good man who, after one year, has made choice and consorted with the wicked. A thousand dollars reward for one such instance. I care not how strong your character may be. Associate with gamblers, you will become a gambler. Clan with burglars, and you will become a burglar. Go among the unclean, and you will become unclean. Neg appreciating the truth of my text, many a young man has been destroyed. He wakes up some morning in the great city, and knows no one except the persons who whisper curtsey he has entered.

As he goes into the store all the clerks mark him, measure him and discuss him. The upright young men of the store wish him well, but perhaps wait for a formal introduction, and even then feel a delicacy about inviting him into their associations. But the bad young men of the store at the first opportunity approach and offer their services. They patronize him. They profess to know all about the town. They will take him anywhere that he wishes to go—if he will pay the expenses. For if a good young man and a bad young man go to some place where they ought not, the good young man has invariably to pay the charges. At the moment the ticket is to be paid for, or the champagne settled for, the bad young man feels around in his pockets and says: "I have forgotten my pocket book." In forty-eight hours after the young man has entered the store the bad fellows of the establishment slap him on the shoulder familiarly, and, at his stupidity in taking certain allusions, say: "My young friend, you will have to be broken in;" and they immediately proceed to break him in. Young man, in the name of God I warn you to beware how you let a bad man talk familiarly with you. If such an one slap you on the shoulder familiarly, turn round and give him a withering look, until the wretch crouches in your presence. There is no monstrosity of wickedness that can stand unabashed under the glance of purity and honor. God keeps the lightnings of heaven in his own scabbard, and no human arm can wield them; but God gives to every young man a lightning that he may use, and that is the lightning of an honest eye. Those who have been close observers will not wonder why I give warning to young men, and say: "Beware of bad company."

First, I warn you to shun the skeptic—the young man who puts his fingers in his vest and laughs at your old fashioned religion, and turns over to some mystery of the Bible and says: "Explain that, my pious friend; explain that." And who says: "Nobody shall scare me; I am not afraid of the future; I used to be . . . in such things, and I did my father and mother, but I have got over it." Yes, he has got over it; and if you sit in his company a little longer you will get over it, too. Without presenting one argument against the Christian religion such men will, by their jeers and scoffs and caricatures, destroy your respect for that religion which was the strength of your father in his declining years, and the pillow of your old mother when she lay a-dying. Alas! a time will come when that blustering young infidel will have to die, and then his diamond ring will flash no splendor in the eyes of Death as he stands over the couch waiting for his soul. Those beautiful locks will be uncombed upon the pillow, and the dying man will say: "I cannot die—I cannot die." Death, standing ready beside the couch, says: "You must die; you have only half a minute to live; let me have it right away—your soul." "No," says the young infidel, "here are my gold rings and these pictures; take them all." "No," says Death, "what do I care for pictures!—your soul." "Stand back," says the dying infidel. "I will not stand back," says Death, "for you have only ten seconds now to live; I want your soul." The dying man says: "Don't breathe that cold air into my face. You crowd me too hard. It is getting dark in the room. O God!" "Hush," says Death; "you said there was no God." "Pray for me," exclaims the expiring infidel. "Too late to pray," says Death; "but three more seconds to live, and I will count them off—one—two—three." He has gone! Where? Where? Carry him out—out, and bury him beside his father and mother, who died while holding fast the Christian religion. They died singing, but the young infidel only said: "Don't breathe that cold air into my face. You crowd me too hard. It is getting dark in the room."

THE MAN WHO DOES NOTHING IS WORTH NOTHING.

Again, I urge you to shun the companionship of idlers. There are men hanging around every store, and office, and shop, who have nothing to do, or act as if they had not. They are apt to congregate in where the men are away, and wish to engage you in conversation while you are engaged in your regular employment. Politely suggest to such persons that you have no time to give them during business hours. Nothing would please them so well as to have you renounce your occupation and associate with them. Much of the time they lounge around the club rooms or the doors of engine houses, or after the dining hour stand upon the steps of a fashionable hotel or an elegant restaurant, wishing to give you the idea that that is the place where they dine. But they do not dine there. They are sinking down lower and lower, day by day. Neither by day nor by night have anything to do with them. Before you admit a man into your acquaintance ask him politely: "What do you do for a living?" If he says: "Nothing; I am a gentleman," look out for him. He may have a very soft hand, and very faultless apparel, and give a step dancing variety show, but his touch is death. Before you know it, you will in his presence be ashamed of your work dress. Business will become to you drudgery, and after awhile you will lose your place, and afterwards your respectability, and last of all your soul. Idleness is next door to villainy. Thieves, gamblers, burglars, shoplifters and assassins are made from the class who have nothing to do. When the police go to hunt up and arrest a culprit they seldom go to look in among busy clerks or in the busy carriage factory, but they go among the groups of idlers. The play is going on at the theatre, when suddenly there is a scuffle in the top gallery. What is it? A policeman has come in, and, leaning over, has tapped on the shoulder of a young man, saying: "I want you, sir." He has not worked during the day, but somehow has raked together a shilling or two to get into the top gallery. He is an idler. The man on his left hand is an idler, and the man on his left hand is an idler.

Shrink back from idleness in yourself and in others, if you would maintain a right position. Good old Ashbel Green, at more than eighty years of age, was found busy writing, and some young man said to him: "Why do you keep busy? It is time for you to rest." He answered: "I keep busy to keep out of mischief." No man is strong enough to be idle.

Are you fond of pictures? If so I will show you one of the works of an old master. Here it is: "I went by the field of the slothful, and by the vineyard of the man void of understanding; and lo! it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall was broken down. Then I saw and considered well. I looked upon it and received instruction. Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep. So shall thy poverty come as one that traveleth and thy want as an armed man." I don't know of another sentence in the Bible more explosive than that. It first hisses softly, like the fuse of a cannon, and at last bursts like a fifty-four pounder. The old proverb was right: "The devil tempts most men, but idlers tempt the devil."

BREAD THAT IS CAST UPON THE WATERS.

A young man came to a man of ninety years of age and said to him: "How have you made out to live so long and be so well?" The old man took the youngster to an orchard, and, pointing to some large trees full of apples, said: "I planted these trees when I was a boy, and do you wonder that now I am permitted to gather the fruit of them?" We gather in old age what we plant in our youth. Sow to the wind and we reap the whirlwind. Plant in early life the right kind of a Christian character, and you will eat luscious fruit in old age, and gather these harvest apples in eternity.

Again, I urge you to avoid the perpetual pleasure seeker. I believe in recreation and amusement. I need it as much as I need bread, and go to my daily exercise with as conscientious a purpose as I go to the Lord's Supper; and all persons of sanguine temperament must have amusement and recreation. God won't not have made us with the capacity to laugh if he had not intended us sometimes to indulge it. God hath hung in sky, and set in wave, and printed on grass many a roundelay; but he who chooses pleasure seeking for his life work does not understand for what God made him. Our amusements are intended to help us in some earnest mission. The thunder cloud hath an edge exquisitely purpled, but, with voice that jars the earth, it declares: "I go to water the green fields." The wild flowers under the fence are gay, but they say: "We stand here to make a beautiful edge for the wheat field, and to refresh the husbandman in their nooning." The stream sparkles and foams and frolics, and says: "I go to baptize the moss. I have the spots on the trout. I slake the thirst of the bird. I turn the wheel of the mill. I rock in my crystal cradle muckshaw and water lily." And so, while the world plays, it works. Look out for the man who always plays and never works.

You will do well to avoid those whose regular business it is to play ball, skate or go a-boating. All these sports are grand in their places. I never derived so much advantage from any ministerial association as from a ministerial club that went out to play ball every Saturday afternoon in the outskirts of Philadelphia. These recreations are grand to give us muscle and spirits for our regular toil. I believe in muscular Christianity. A man is often not so near God with a weak stomach as when he has a strong digestion. But shun those who make it their life occupation to sport. There are young men whose industry and usefulness have fallen overboard from the yacht on the Hudson or the Schuylkill. There are men whose business fell through the ice of the skating pond, and has never since been heard of. There is a beauty in the gliding of a boat, in the song of skates, in the soaring of a well struck ball, and I never see one fly but I involuntarily throw up my hands to catch it; and, so far from laying an injunction upon ball playing, or any other innocent sport, I claim them all as belonging of right to those of us who toil in the grand industries of church and state.

LISTEN NOT TO THE TEMPTER'S VOICE.

But the life business of pleasure seeking always makes in the end a criminal or a sot. George Brummell was mailed upon by all England, and his life was given to pleasure. He danced with princes, and swung a round of mirth, and wealth, and applause, until exhausted of purse, and worn out of body, and bankrupt of reputation, and ruined of soul, he begged a biscuit from a grocer, and declared that he thought a dog's life was better than a man's.

Such men will crowd around your desk or counter or work bench or seek to decoy you off. They will want you to break out in the midst of your busy day to take a ride with them to Coney Island or to Central park. They will tell you of some people you must see; of some excursion that you must take; of some Sabbath day that you ought to dishonor. They will tell you of exquisite wines that you must take; of costly operas that you must hear; of wonderful dancers that you must see; but before you accept their convoy or their companionship, remember that while at the end of a useful life you may be able to look back to kindnesses done, to honorable work accomplished, to poverty helped, to a good name earned, to Christian influence exerted, to a Saviour's cause advanced—these pleasure seekers on their death bed have nothing better to review than a torn play bill, a ticket for the races, an empty tankard, and the cast out rinds of a carcass; and as in the delirium of their awful death they clutch the goblet, and press it to their lips, the dregs of the cup, falling upon their tongue, will begin to hiss and uncoil with the adders of an eternal poison.

Cast out these men from your company. Do not be intimate with them. Always be polite. There is no demand that you ever exercise politeness. A young man accosted a Christian Quaker with: "Old chap, how did you make all your money?" The Quaker replied: "By dealing in an article that thou mayest deal in if thou wilt—civility." Always be courteous, but at the same time firm. Say no as if you meant it. Have it understood in store, and shop, and street, that you will not stand in the companionship of the skeptic, the idle, the pleasure seeker.

Rather than enter the companionship of such, accept the invitation to a better feast. The promises of God are the fruits. The harps of heaven are the winds. Clusters from the vineyards of God have been pressed into the tankards. The sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty are the guests. While, standing at the banquet, to fill the cups and divide the clusters, and command the harps, and welcome the guests, is a daughter of Heaven whose brow are the blossoms of Paradise and in whose cheek is the flush of celestial summer. Her name is Religion.

Her ways are ways of pleasantness,
And all her paths are peace.

AVOID THE SOCIETY OF BAD MEN.

Decide this soon, oh young man, what direction you will take. There comes such a moment of final decision—why not this? One night I saw a young man at the street corner evidently doubtful as to which direction he had better take, his hat lifted high enough so you could see he had an intelligent forehead, and he had a stout chest and a robust development. Splendid young man. Cultured young man. Honored young man. Why did he stop there while so many were going up and down? The fact is that every man has a good angel and a bad angel contending for the mastery of his spirit, and there was a good angel and a bad angel struggling with that young man's soul at the corner of the street. "Come with me," said the good angel; "I will take you home; I will spread my wing over your pillow; I will lovingly escort you all through life under supernatural protection; I will bless every one you drink out of, every couch you rest on, every doorway you enter; I will consecrate your tears when you weep, your sweat when you toil, and at the last I will hand over your grave to the bright angel of a Christian resurrection. In answer to your father's petition and your mother's prayer, I have been sent of the Lord out of heaven to be your guardian spirit. Come with me," said the good angel, in a voice of unearthly symphony. It was music like that which drops from a lute of Heaven when a seraph breathes on it. "No, no," said the bad angel, "come with me; I have something better to offer; the wines I pour are from chalices of bewitching carousal; the dance I lead is over floor tessellated with unrestrained indulgence; there is no God to frown on the temples of sin where I worship. The skies are Italian. The paths I tread are through meadows dashed and primeroped. Come with me." The young man hesitated at a time when hesitation was ruin, and the bad angel smote the good angel until it departed, spreading wings through the starlight upward and away, until a door flashed open in the sky and forever the wings vanished. That was the turning point in that young man's history; for, the good angel flown, he hesitated no longer, but started on a pathway which is beautiful at the opening, but blasted at last. The bad angel leading the way opened gate after gate, and at each gate the road became rougher and the sky more lurid, and, what was peculiar, as the gate slammed shut it came to with a jar that indicated that it would never open. Passed each portal, there was a grinding of locks and a shoving of bolts; and the scenery on either side the road changed from gardens to deserts, and the June air became a cutting December blast, and the bright wings of the bad angel turned to sackcloth, and the eyes of light became hollow with hopeless grief, and the fountains, that at the start had tossed with wine, poured forth bubbling tears and foaming blood, and on the right side of the road there was a serpent, and the man said to the bad angel: "What is that serpent?" and the answer was: "That is the serpent of stinging remorse." On the left side of the road there was a lion, and the man asked the bad angel: "What is that lion?" and the answer was: "That is the lion of all devouring despair." A vulture flew through the sky, and the man asked the bad angel: "What is that vulture?" and the answer was: "That is the vulture waiting for the carcasses of the slain." And then the man began to try to pull off of him the folds of something that had wound him round and round, and he said to the bad angel: "What is it that twists me in this awful convolution?" and the answer was: "That is the worm that never dies." And then the man said to the bad angel: "What does all this mean? I trusted in what you said at the corner of the street that night; I trusted it all, and why have you thus deceived me?" Then the last deception fell off the charmer, and it said: "I was sent forth from the pit to destroy your soul; I watched my chance for many a long year; when you hesitated that night on the street I gained my triumph; now you are here. Ha! ha! You are here. Come, now, let us fill these two chalices of fire, and drink together to darkness and woe and death. Hail! hail!" Oh! young man, will the good angel sent forth by Christ or the bad angel sent forth by sin get the victory over your soul? Their wings are interlocked this moment above you, contending for your destiny, as above the Appenines eagle and condor fight mid-sky. This hour may decide your destiny. God help you. To hesitate is to die!

Selling a Burning Steamer.

The Baltimore American will publish a letter from Capt. Thomas Robertson, of the steamer Hawkhurst, a British vessel, which details the thrilling experience of the master and crew while en route from London to Rio Janeiro. On the 23d of March, while in latitude 11 degrees N., longitude 27 degrees W., dense volumes of smoke came out of the hold. The ventilators were at once blocked and holes made in the decks. Water and steam were poured in, but the flames seemed to have fastened on the cargo in the lower hold. During the next four days the decks were red-hot. In the cargo were 700 barrels of oil tallow. The fifth day the port bunkers took fire and they burned for seven days intervening before port was reached. The distance traveled in this time was 2300 miles. In recognition of the good seamanship and bravery of Capt. Robertson, the Emperor of Brazil wrote him a letter and decorated him with a medal of the first class.

Ralph Waldo Emerson had a simple remedy for the child that cried at table. He would send it out to see if the gate had been left open or if the clouds were forming in the sky. His theory was that "the great calm face of nature would soothe the little grief, or that her brilliant activity of wind and sun would divert the childish mind." Ralph Waldo was a great philosopher but evidently his child knowledge was confined to a few notable exceptions. The average child squalling for the second piece of cake is not apt to take much stock in the "great calm face of nature."

Hon. Mr. Blake and Sir John received a magnificent greeting from the students at Toronto University, where the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon them.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

TAKES RISKS ON THE CASH OR MUTUAL PLANS.

As this is a Home Company, organized by British Columbians for the two-fold purpose of giving cheap insurance and keeping the money in the Province, it commends itself to the support of every patriot desiring the prosperity of this country.

In Ontario, the system of insurance which is similar to that adopted by this Company, has been in highly successful operation for the past fifty years, and it has proved to be a great advantage to every insurer in it, by reducing the cost of insurance, and it is estimated that one-three-fourths of the insurance effected in Ontario is carried by mutual companies.

—The reason ascribed for the steamer Potter not making a special trip to Seattle yesterday, as wished for by many, was that the steamer had been doing so much steaming of late that a day's rest was of paramount consideration.

A Worthy Contribution.

At the close of the services in the Calvary Baptist church last evening and in addition to the usual offering a contribution was asked by Rev. Mr. Rugg on behalf of the Seattle sufferers. The generous congregation, which is not what could be called a large one, responded by putting $70 in the plate.

Correction.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer reported that "the steamer T. J. Potter was chartered by a number of Victoria gentlemen to convey the firemen and apparatus to Seattle." The steamer was placed at the disposal of the firemen free of charge by the head office in Portland and Captain Roberts. The vessel made the run to Seattle in five hours.

An Alaskan Railway.

The San Francisco Chronicle of last Thursday says the construction of a line from Victoria, B. C., to Alaska, rendering travel to the Arctic possible, is being seriously talked of. The engineers pronounce the scheme feasible, and estimate to cost at $130,000,000. The idea, if carried out, would be a great step in the development of Alaskan resources, and would help the United States to a considerable revenue on the $7,000,000 which Alaska cost.

Deaths.

Henry Wonscott, who has lived in the city and vicinity for years, expired last night at the Four-Mile House of apoplexy of the brain. The deceased was 56 years of age and a native of Tourtsey, Devonshire.

J. Stuart Macdonald, agent for Carroll & Carroll, San Francisco, died of dropsy at St. Joseph's Hospital last evening. It is expected that the remains will be forwarded to his wife at Portland for burial. Deceased was 50 years of age.

"And the Greatest is Charity."

At the close of the service in the Pandora street Methodist church last evening Mr. Starr asked for a contribution in aid of the Seattle sufferers. The plate was passed round and a collection amounting to $150 taken up. This collection, which was made spontaneously in addition to the regular offering, speaks well for the open-handed, open-hearted christianity of the Methodist congregation, as well as for the generous-minded pastor, who was himself not among the least of the givers.

Cutting Telephone Wires.

On Saturday night two bluejackets exceeded the time of their leave and were acting in a very disorderly manner at Esquimalt. They climbed a telephone pole near the Canteen and cut two wires belonging to the Victoria & Esquimalt Telephone Company. A lieutenant with a guard searched for the men on Saturday night. They were arrested by officer Campbell and Sergt. Walker and taken on board their ship. The object in cutting the wires was to prevent communication with the police in this city.

Very Evenly Divided.

Saturday being pay day, the employees of the Vancouver Coal Company were invited to record their votes in ballot boxes conveniently placed in the company's offices as to whether they were in favor or otherwise of retaining the professional services of Dr. E. A. Praeger. The result was:

For Dr. Praeger	202
Against Dr. Praeger	202

We understand that upwards of a hundred men failed to cast their votes, owing to a slight misunderstanding.—Courier

"Get There Eli."

Mr. Eli Perkins will lecture in the Victoria Theatre on Thursday evening, the 13th instant, commencing at eight o'clock, and continuing till somebody requests him to stop. In case of an accident to the lecturer, or if he should die or be hung before the evening of the disturbance, tickets, which are now on sale at Waitt's book store, will admit the bearer to a front seat at the funeral, where he can sit and enjoy himself, the same as at the lecture. The highest priced seats are those nearest the door and these are reserved for the particular friends of the speaker. Mr. Perkins distributes a six-dollar chromo to all who remain to the end of the lecture. Parties of six who sit the lecture out will be given a house and lot.

THE YEAR'S WORK.

Annual Report of the City School Trustees.

A meeting of householders was held in the city hall this morning for the purpose of receiving the annual report of the school trustees.

The secretary read the following report of the trustees for the school year ending 30th June, 1889.

To the Electors of Victoria School District:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—In accordance with the provisions of the Public School Act, your trustees have the honor to present their annual report, and have great pleasure in stating that the public schools of this city are yearly becoming more efficient and appreciated.

It is gratifying to be able to report that the utmost harmony has existed amongst all concerned during the year, and your trustees have reason to believe that steady progress has been made in all classes.

The average daily attendance of pupils at our schools has been 1026.80, showing an increase of 109.41 over any previous year, being a daily average of 48.89 for each of the 21 teachers employed.

During the midsummer holidays of 1888 the whole of the school buildings were thoroughly renovated, and a large and commodious brick addition was made to the building occupied by the senior classes of the girls' department of the Central Schools. This building is now entirely occupied by the girls' school, the original central building being devoted to the boys.

The large increase in the attendance at the High School has necessitated the appointment of an additional teacher for that important institution, provision for which was made by the legislature at its last session.

The increasing importance of the Ward Schools is shown by the necessity of an additional room, which is now being added to each of these schools in order to accommodate the large attendance of pupils. Provision has been made for the appointment of a monitor for each of the four ward schools.

The Board has also to report that a residence for the janitor of the Central Schools will shortly be under construction. By residing on the ground the janitor will have a constant supervision over the school buildings and property. Provision has also been made for the painting of the whole of the Central School buildings during the midsummer vacation, which will greatly add to their appearance.

It is gratifying to the Board to be able to report that it has not been necessary to make a single change in the teaching staff during the present school year.

The following table will show the rapid strides made since the inauguration of the public schools in this city:

Year.	No. of Teachers.	Av. Daily Attendance.
1872-73	5	215.00
1873-74	5	218.00
1874-75	6	272.00
1875-76	7	302.00
1876-77	9	374.00
1877-78	10	450.15
1878-79	10	398.99
1879-80	10	398.78
1880-81	11	410.09
1881-82	12	433.33
1882-83	12	414.55
1883-84	17	679.65
1884-85	17	719.70
1885-86	18	797.10
1886-87	19	894.29
1887-88	21	917.39
1888-89	21	1026.80

The important subject of setting apart by the government of public lands as an endowment for the Provincial University was again brought before the Minister of Education by the Board in February last, and it is earnestly hoped that ere long the province will be in possession of such an institution.

The retiring trustees are: D. R. Harris, James Bay; C. Hayward, Yates Street Ward; and Robert Erskine, Johnson Street Ward, whose successors are to be elected by you on Monday, the 17th instant.

The following is a summary of the expenditure for the year exclusive of that made by the Lands and Works Department:

Teachers' salaries	$ 27,840 00
Janitors	1,150 00
Coal and wood	920 00
Incidental expenses	432 93
	$ 19,342 93

In conclusion the Board trust that their attention to duty and their efforts to promote the efficiency of the Public Schools of this city during the past year will meet with your approbation.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(sgd) CHAS. HAYWARD,
H. F. HEISTERMAN,
R. ERSKINE,
RICHARD MORRISON,
D. R. HARRIS.
(sgd) R. WOLFENDEN,
Secretary.

Mr. McMicking in moving the adoption of the report said it was gratifying to hear such a good report for the year. He referred to the expense of maintaining the public schools of the province and thought that eventually the provincial treasury would have to be relieved in some way. He thought that part of the teachers' salaries at least should be paid by local taxation.

Rev. D. Fraser said it afforded him great pleasure to second the motion for the adoption of the report, congratulated the trustees upon the good showing, and referring particularly to the great increase of attendance since the inauguration of the present school system in 1872-73. He thought if the framers of the system could now be present they would be very much satisfied with the result of their work. He counseled the members of the board to preserve the school system in its integrity. He congratulated the board on the harmony which had prevailed at their meetings during the year.

The report was then adopted.

Rev. Mr. Fraser moved that the thanks of this meeting be tendered to the trustees for the able manner in which they had performed their duties during the year; seconded by Mr. McMicking and carried.

The chairman, Mr. Hayward, cordially returned the thanks of the board and the meeting adjourned.

TRAIN ACCIDENT.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 10.—The fast express train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, running between Harrisburg and Wilkesbarre was thrown from the track at Sugar Notch this morning while running 35 miles per hour. The cars were telescoped and two of them crushed into a frame house which stood near the track, and the tenants had narrow escapes. The escape of the passengers from instant death was miraculous. The following sustained serious injuries: John S. McGreerly, deputy-treasurer of Luzerne County; George H. Troutman, lawyer of Wyoming; Owen Lynch, principal of Freeland Schools and Mrs. Castello and child, of Whitehaven. It will take all day to clear the wreck. All traffic is at a standstill. A broken axle under the tender caused the train to leave the track.

Stokes, the Nanaimo long distance runner, is in this city. He is anxious to run Tom Watson, and will be accommodated by the champion of the Pacific coast.

E North intends to challenge Mr. Gorham, of Seattle, to a race of 5000 yards, go-as-you-please.

Two representatives of the Port Townsend base ball club were in this city yesterday to arrange for a game on the 4th July.

Tom Cleary, the Seattle pugilist, arrived in this city on Saturday to make arrangements for a boxing contest with Clem Austin.
